NATIONAL POETRY FESTIVAL

"Earth Besieged" is the theme of this year's National Poetry Week Festival, featuring major writers and special events on the environmental crisis. Over seventy-five poets, writers, and performing artists appear at the ten-day festival, from Friday, October 13 through Sunday, October 22.

Featured are Adrienne Rich, the noted feminist poet, and Allen Ginsberg, the popular Beat poet. Also appearing are playwright Michael McClure, and poets Diane DiPrima, Michael Palmer, Jerome Rothenberg, Etel Adnan, and David Meltzer.

Special programs on the relationship of poetry to other arts include Poetry in Music with composers Charles Amirkhanian and Susan Stone; Poetry in Dance with David Gere and Ellen Webb of the Talking Dance Project; and Poetry in Drama, featuring Jeffrey Pressman and The Western Edge Theatre.

International Day, October 21, features Giovanni Giudici from Italy, Jean-Jacques Lebel from France, Aung Aung Taik from Burma, and noted international poets from Africa, Latin America and the Soviet Union.

In addition to readings and evening performances, the festival presents an art exhibit - Poets as Painters - a book fair and display, and Poetry Video Theatre, with screenings of rare archival films and videos of Jack Kerouac, Charles Olson, Robert Duncan, and other writers who shaped the American poetic tradition. There are also panels and workshops on the state of modern American poetry, the art of translation, and a final poetry "summit meeting" featuring leading national and international poets.

Organized by volunteers of The National Poetry Association, National Poetry Week is the largest literary festival in the United States. Now in its third year, the festival is attracting others to its goal of a nationwide celebration of poetry. This year, arts organizations from each region of the country are hosting simultaneous poetry events in conjunction with the San Francisco festival.

"People are beginning to discover the passion and amazing variety of poetry today," says festival organizer and poet John Mueller. "From movies like Dead Poets Society to poetry festivals like National Poetry Week, the American public is experiencing the true delights of their own language."

For details of the festival schedule, see the Calendar listing for October 13, inside. For further information, call 776-6602.

FALL ANTIQUES SHOW

An extraordinary collection from one of the world's most celebrated jewellers is this year's special exhibit at the eighth annual San Francisco Fall Antiques Show. Garrard & Co., crown jewellers for England's royal family, has assembled historic and unusual pieces of jewelry and silver from private collections in England. Among them is a crown of diamonds and emeralds made for Queen Victoria.

The Fall Antiques Show, held each October at Fort Mason as a benefit for Enterprise for High School Students, Inc., has become the major antiques event in the Western United States. This year, sixty-four exhibitors from all over the country and from Europe display a wide range of antiques and works of art, including furniture, paintings and prints, silver, rugs, tapestries and textiles, jewelry, glass, porcelain, Asian, African and Oceanic art, Americana, clocks and books.

An informative lecture series is also presented as a part of the Antiques Show. Featured are Rosamond Bernier, renowned lecturer on the arts; William Summers, Garrard Exhibit, London; Margot Guralnik, House & Garden Magazine; a panel on decorating with antiques; and a panel on antiques collecting from a journalist's viewpoint.

New this year is an exhibit of outstanding pieces from members of the National Antique and Art Dealers Association of America, to promote the high standards of quality of the Association. All of the objects in this exhibit are for sale.

Enterprise for High School Students, celebrating its twentieth anniversary, is a unique nonprofit job referral and apprenticeship agency for San Francisco high school students. It derives a substantial portion of its annual operating revenues from the proceeds of the Antiques Show.

The show takes place in Fort Mason's Festival Pavilion, Pier 3. The Pavilion is transformed into a bazaar of room displays in a garden setting, with trees and flowers filling the entrance. A restaurant in the center of the Pavilion is open throughout the run of the show for light meals and snacks.

The show is open October 26 through 29. Hours are 10am to 7pm on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; noon to 6pm on Sunday. General admission is $15. The preview party on Wednesday, October 25, begins at 6:30pm. Admission is $100. Group rates are available for the lectures. For information, call 921-1411.

MEDIA HONORS

Media Alliance presents its ninth annual Media Alliance Meritorious Achievement (MAMA) awards to Bay Area media professionals on Thursday, October 26, in the Cowell Theater. The MAMA awards recognize achievements that emphasize social commitment in addition to journalistic excellence. This year's winners include the Golden Gadfly award to Stewart Brand, publisher of Whole Earth Review; the community journalism award to Earth Island Journal, for in-depth and activist-oriented reporting of environmental issues; the television achievement award to Betty Ann Bruno, KTVU reporter; and the Elsa Knight Thompson Award for Special Achievement to the San Francisco Examiner for its "Gay in America" series.

The awards ceremony takes place at 6:30 pm, and is open to the public. Advance tickets are recommended, and are available at the Media Alliance office on the second floor of Building D at Fort Mason. Tickets for MA members are $10 in advance, $15 at the door; for non-members, $15 in advance, $20 at the door. For further information, call 441-2557.

The Elsa Knight Thompson Award for Special Achievement will go to (left to right) Frank McCulloch, Greg Brock, Micky Feusse, Larry Kramer and Carol Ness of the San Francisco Examiner staff for the "Gay in America" series.

NEW MUSIC

Earplay, the San Francisco-based contemporary music ensemble, celebrates its fifth anniversary season with a concert series of new music at Fort Mason's Cowell Theater.

The season will feature world premieres of Rhapsody by Ursula Mamlok, and We Three by Bay Area composer Allen Shearer, both works commissioned by Earplay. Six more world premieres will be heard, including a chamber concerto for flute and ten instruments by Andrew Frank, and works by Richard Festinger, John Thow, Mark Winges and Peter Josheff. From beyond the Bay Area, there will be West Coast premieres of ten exciting works in diverse styles, from the pictorial echoes of Thea Musgrave's Narcissus to the interwoven textures of Victor Ialeggio's Trio, the rhythmic intensity of John Gibson's A Bao A Qu, and the jazzy interactions of David Stock's Triple Play and Scott Lindroth's Chasin' the Trane out of Darmstadt.

Earplay is a group of young composers and performers whose goal was to create a professional ensemble to serve American music by providing superb, communicative performances of new American chamber works of the highest artistic merit, thereby building a wider audience for contemporary music, and providing a stimulus to composers to produce new works. In its four seasons, the nonprofit group has presented eighty-three new works to Bay Area audiences. Some twenty of those works were written especially for the ensemble.

The 1989-90 season begins with an October 10 presentation featuring works of Allen Shearer, Ursula Mamlok, John Felder, Jerome Kitzke, Victor Ialeggio and Thea Musgrave. For information, call 540-1088.
